DISCRIMINATION/ HARASSMENT & VICTIMISATION

Discrimination can take the form of any of the following examples, but is not necessarily restricted to only those examples:

Direct Discrimination

Treating someone less favourably than you would treat others in the same circumstances.

Indirect Discrimination

This occurs when a requirement or condition is applied equally to all which has disproportionate and detrimental effect on one sex or racial group because fewer of that group can comply with it and the requirement cannot be justified in relation to the job.

Harassment

Harassment can be described as inappropriate actions, behaviour, comments or physical contact that is objectionable or causes offence to the recipient. It may be of a sexual or racial nature or it may be directed towards people because of their age, their sexuality, a disability, or some other characteristic. Such behaviour is not acceptable and neither is it excused on the grounds that the harasser did not intend it.

Victimisation

Victimisation can be described as when one person is treated less favourably than others because he or she has provided information about discrimination, harassment or inappropriate behaviour.

The EKF regards discrimination, harassment or victimisation as serious misconduct and any employee, volunteer or member who discriminates against, harasses or victimises any other person will be liable to appropriate disciplinary action.
